(Praise Music with the McMahon Family)

Tracy is a preschool teacher who works with young children and their families. While she has written pieces of poetry and short stories in the past, she is looking forward to using her writing as an avenue to draw young people closer to the Lord. She enjoys reading historical fiction and inspirational books that challenge her to soar even higher. In her free time, Tracy enjoys running and taking walks with her husky or watching movies with her family. Tracy lives in Connecticut with her husband and two children, while visiting with her extended family often.
