Copyright

We purchase first rights, which include digital copies and social network sharing. We maintain the right to reprint your article in any CEAI publications. Additionally, because we are an educational publication, we give members permission to copy for educational purposes. We respect copyright law and contact authors if someone outside the educational community wants to reprint an article. We only give permission if the author approves and the reprint includes when and where the article was published.

For example:

"This article first appeared in Teachers of Vision magazine in the Winter 2018 issue. Teachers of Vision magazine is a publication of CEAI, Westlake, OH. (CEAI.org)"

Submission Process

- Email your Microsoft Word or Pages article submission as an attachment to tov@ceai.org.
- Include your name, mailing address, e-mail address, telephone number, and word count at the top of your manuscript.
- We cannot guarantee your article will be accepted.
- We reserve the right to edit material for length and content.
- We maintain the right to reprint your article in other CEAI publications including CEAI's website, social media, and emails.
- We accept previously published articles, provided you inform us of where the article appeared and verify ownership of reprint rights.
